Gardening and Harvesting

IDEA IN BRIEF

What?

Time on “pre-evangelism” is time well spent; a call-to-action every time is not required

Why?

So that we don't overload our audience or ourselves

How?

By showing that the conversion process has more than one step

1

What are some topics that it doesn't make sense to focus on?

2

What are some topics that it likely does make sense to focus on?

3

What does it mean that Paul planted, and Apollos watered?

“The bright sunlight that at first reduces everything to a painful dazzle of white, and seems even to take away your power of sight...

It takes time for one's eyes to adjust.”

HOLLY ORDWAY
Not God's Type

4

Describe the distinction between the sower and the reaper in John 4:35-39

5

Describe the Gospel to someone who doesn't know what it is

Key Takeaways

---

1

Time on “pre-evangelism” is time well spent; give yourself credit even if all you do is ask some questions

Getting to the “call-to-action” in every conversation is not required (and in some cases, not a good idea)
